

I'M IN MIDDLE SCHOOL: WHAT ABOUT COLLEGE?

Even though high school is your next step and college is a few years off, this is the perfect time to start thinking about your future.

Here are three easy ways you can set yourself up to be college-ready in high school:

Start talking about college

Tell your teachers and counselors that you're thinking about college so they can help you take the right steps to get there. Along with your family, they can become a big part of your support network.

Explore careers you think are interesting.

Start talking to someone in those jobs and ask about what they studied in college, what their daily work looks like, and what you could be doing now to prepare. Your teacher or counselor may be able to help you find someone to talk to.

Start good study habits

When it comes time to apply to college, you want to be seen as a well-rounded student who can succeed in lots of different subjects. Make sure to keep your grades up and even study extra hard in the courses or subjects that are more challenging.
